DAILY LEADER GENERAL GRANT IN CANADA.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal writing on board the steamer Europa, which conveyed General Grant and his party from Quebec to Montreal, relates the following interesting incidents:

THE DEPARTURE FROM QUEBEC. When the tourists at Quebec learned When the tourists at Quebec learned that General Grant was to go up the river by boat, there was a rush for tickets. Every stateroom and berth was speedily engaged. There is a crowd on board and the steward has transformed the salcon tables into bedsteads. The passengers have improved the occasion to stare of boxes enough to freight one of Adams at Uo.'s express wagons. The contrast be-tween the two mon was very great. The Admiral is taller than General triatt and older by ion or fifteen years, with iron gray that I need not give a description of his personal appearance. Fir James found a plain man in plain clothes. The Admiral and his officers were gorgeous in gold lace, bright buttons, crimson sasher, chapeaus, nodding plumes, spaulets and starz. Af-ter the call, the Admiral sat down with Garness Great General Grant and enjoyed a cigar. He gave free expression to his admiration of Produce Commission Merchants, General Grant. He said that he was sur prised to see a man so uncetentatious. "He is not at all like our officers," he said. The Admiral said aside his cost, chapeau and plumes, and appeared in naval undress of white pants, blue coat and plain cap. CANADIAN JPINION OF GENERAL GRANT

As stated in a previous letter, I am here, not to speak of General Grant's n ply to hear what the people will say of him. It is interesting to hear the comments. There is a large stout, white-haired man, dressed in Canada gray, accompanied by his wife and daughter on a trip.

I intended to spend another day in Quebec," said he, " but when I fourd General Grant was going up the river I thought I would go in the same boat, and so secured tickets. My wife feels bad not to see Monterenci, but then she can see General Grant"

"How does he impress you," I asked. "Oh, he is a gentleman. He is a plain-nan, and the more I see of him the better I like him. He isn't stuck up at all; but wears his honors quietly," was the reply. On the sofa opposite to me is a young snob, dressed in a short gray rounds bout. He has red whiskers of the shoe-brush pattern, and is quizzing the General through his eye-glasses.

"Aw, I don't see anything remarkable about him," he says to'n fellow of the same breed who sits beside him.

If the subject of their remarks was exrecedingly dignified and wore full military dress, with epaulets, stars, gold lace and gilt buttons, if he looked hangitily upon everybody present, if he was proud encuganot to see any one who was not presented with formality and dignity, doubtless these fellows would have seen something remarkable in him. They have not sense enough to know that his unestentations manners. to know that his uncetentatious manners, his urbane treatment of all who approach him, is as very remarkable that the payon said another who stood by his side.

"I had a brother who fit under him," said a third. While walking around the citadel I fell into conversation with the soldier who conducted our party. He belongs to the Rifles. "I had a brother who was under Grant," he said. "He got wounded in front of Petersburg and has got his discharge. " What does he say of General Grant,"

"Oh, he says he is a bully boy."
Then he began to talk about the fortifi-

"These are no good. I recken your guns which you have got would knock these walls to pieces mighty quick." Then looking across the river he pointed out the place where the new fortifications are to be erected at Point Levi, and said : are to be erected at Point Levi, and said:

"What good will they do when completed? They may keep a vessel from coming up the river, but if we had war with you, Grant would come up from Maine and take us on the land side."

There was more practical wisdom in what he said than in the whole Board of Admirality, or whatever board of home government sat upon the Canadian defence ques-tioz. Cazada can't be desended any more than the Confederacy could be defended Are the English lords and admirals bats that they don't see it?

I have some important information on that and kindred points which I must preserve for another letter. But we are approaching Montreal, the bitterest secession place in Canada. It will be interesting to
